KREUTZ CREEK LIBRARY HONORS

Honoring Sean Clark

Sean Clark founded York Independents, Inc. in 2001 to help others access knowledge and strategies to help secure their financial future. Originally trained as an engineer, Sean says the attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, awakened a desire in him to find a way to more closely help the people in his community, and he changed his focus to financial services. Sean is a Master Registered Financial Consultant and an Investment Adviser Representative, having passed the Series 65 securities exam, and he is licensed in Pennsylvania for health and life insurance as well as annuities. He earned his Bachelor of Science in mechanical engineering at Penn State University and his Master of Business Administration in Entrepreneurship from American Public University. He also has completed graduate courses in financial markets at Yale University and is a Ph.D. candidate at University of the Cumberland.

Sean is a lifelong resident of York County, Pennsylvania, where he and his wife, Annette, are raising their two daughters, Virginia and Callie. Sean is a drag racing fan, and York Independents sponsors the NHRA Leverage Racing Team. In his free time, he stays active with Rotary and Friends of Spring Garden. Sean and his family love to travel the United States in their RV.

Sean has been a favored presenter at several York County libraries over the years, and Kreutz Creek Library holds a special place for Sean and his family. Sean's enduring dedication to the people of York County continues to make our community a better place to learn and grow.
