DESIGNING WITH PERENNIALS

Would you like to be able to design and put together a perennial garden? The Third Wednesday Evening Series is back and our March program will help you with information on how to design your own garden.

This program will help you with selecting the perennials so that constant color and interest in your garden is extended throughout the year. You will learn about the different types of plants and when they bloom. Also, how to propagate them and when to plant and prune. All of this will help you get started creating your own special garden.

John Geoghan (Pronounced Gay-Gan) has been a Master Gardener for 37 years.
He has designed and maintained many personal and business landscapes. There will be a power point presentation to help with decision making for our area.
John has volunteered with many different organizations to provide design features along with proper maintenance.

We invite you to come to

“Designing with Perennials”
Wednesday, March 18th at 6:30PM

This program will be held in the library's Community Room.
